TikTok attracts advertisers by combining videos from self-made creators with those recorded by popular artists into one app. The company was able to sign up brands including Pepsi, Red Bull and Taco Bell within its first few months of operation. In June 2021, it was reported that the app had signed a deal with a major Indian record label called T-Series in order to market TikTok's new music feature in India and other parts of South Asia.",

The criticism of TikTok from a lot of users is not surprising because this platform has been accused of violating its users' privacy in the past. A news article published by a German news outlet noted that "TikTok is no longer just a fun app for teenagers, but rather an attack tool aimed at the private lives and personal data of young people. The American app is the latest in a series of digital platforms to become notorious for breaches of privacy." The article continued to state that "The cross-platform app just received 10 million at-risk accounts. But this data is second-hand, because Snapchat does not make clear whether the images that appear on its platform are real or not." One of the biggest concerns with TikTok is that it allows users to upload sensitive personal information such as videos which include images of people who may be minors. In addition, if a user's account gets hacked, there is no way for them to know if their account has been used against them in a manner which causes harm or embarrassment. In addition, the app does not make clear to its users which videos are older than 24 hours or indicate that their account has been hacked. A lot of people have also expressed concerns about the fact that they do not know what data is collected and what it is used for by the app and that their privacy could potentially be at risk if they do not understand how to use this app as well as what data is being collected from them", On December 19, 2021, TikTok introduced a feature called "Profile Verification" in India. The feature was made to allow users to verify their identity on the app by sending their government-issued identification card number to TikTok. The company announced that the feature would show up as an option in the parental control settings of people who had verified their identities. The feature was only available for people aged 18 and over and did not verify names or email addresses. In addition, the company said it would not use the information for any other purpose other than verifying age on the platform. In an interview with NDTV, Jigar Shah, CEO and founder of TikTok said that they had not created profiles in other countries and that verification was only meant to stop people from registering without giving any information. On August 2, 2021, TikTok stopped offering the feature stating "We have received feedback from a majority of our users who do not wish to share their ID card numbers. We will continue to develop other features that can match identities using information such as phone number or email address." The company said it would continue to consider adding the feature in the future with new technology.",

In March 2021, it was reported that some users were posting videos that had been created by other people while using someone's name as an alias. Because of this, the content creators who created the original video often reported these users and made it clear that the content belonged to them and not to the person using their name online. The following is one example where a person posted a video containing nudity under someone else's alias. The person behind the account later made it clear that they had no part in the content and that they later reported the user after noticing this:",

In another article published in the U.S., it was noted that "The TikTok app is raising safety concerns among parents of young users. It is trying to limit bullying and inappropriate content like nudity, but some families say the new policies are doing more harm than good." This article also indicates that "After several parents complained about inappropriate content, the company changed its policy on who could use the platform: People under 18 can use it only if they have parental consent, while ages 12-13 require written permission from a parent or legal guardian. Now, the app has more than 200 million users worldwide." This article was published on NBCNews.", TikTok has closed deals with several music labels to enable monetization on the platform. The first deal was the exclusive distribution rights to its India expansion in June 2021, which will give TikTok access to 12 million Indian users. A similar deal with Warner Music Group, valued at $600 million (about Rs 3,000 crore), allowed access to 1 billion users in ten countries. In October 2021 it announced a global partnership with Universal Music Group that will allow access to more than ten million followers on TikTok in 18 countries including the US, UK and Spain.",

This app is similar to Snapchat and one good thing to point out about TikTok is that it doesn't require a username or an account login for you to use it so you can use it on your public profile as well. If you are looking for a video sharing application which allows users to create, watch, and share videos with friends on various social networks like Facebook, Twitter, Instagram etc. then you should try TikTok.",

In February 2021, it was revealed that TikTok had reached a deal with Chinese search engine Baidu to launch a new feature called "Selfie Scoring". The photo filter feature is activated by users pressing the "Camera" button on their app which takes a selfie photo and gives immediate feedback for the degree of fidelity to the typical ideal body ideal presented by research studies while also using facial recognition technology to rate how well or poorly they met this criteria. These ratings are accompanied by a star rating on the app's interface itself and can be seen through each user's account page on TikTok's website.",

In an article published on The Washington Post, it was alleged that "TikTok is not for kids." "They're designed to be addictive and purposely designed to keep you coming back again and again," said an anthropology professor at the University of Minnesota who has studied apps like TikTok. However, as was seen in some publications, the age verification policy of the app may not be applicable in countries where there are laws dealing with material concerning children. One of these publications reported on how a 15-year-old girl shared videos of her dancing in her house with a shower curtain and was banned from TikTok. It said that "The company's policies state that users must be at least 17 years old to use the app, and users younger than 13 should have written consent from their parents before using it. However, an 11-year-old girl has reportedly been able to create an account on the app." This article was published on The Washington Post.",
