There were reports of auto-attack bots from a group called "ArtRage" which was hacked to attack other players in order to force them out of the game, and then to prevent them from ever returning. On April 12, 2014 there was a report from an Arianespace engineer that someone had been "hacking into rocket control computers and maneuvering vehicles on the ground". The players involved were reported to be ArtRage members.

On June 16, 2012, Roblox filed a copyright infringement case against Games Done Quick and its game "The Maze" for using their characters and scenery without permission. On December 19, 2015, Games Done Quick settled with Roblox out of court.

ROBLOX classifies its users as members in its Terms of Use. As a member, ROBLOX reserves the right to collect and share personal information, including member account data, e-mail addresses for communication with users such as surveys, notices about the service or changes to the Terms of Use or Privacy Policy, etc., IP addresses and cookies.[2] According to their Privacy Policy, ROBLOX may disclose personal information such as member account data to third parties in order to comply with legal obligations or prevent any illegal activity.

ROBLOX runs a no-sell policy that allows for players to earn "robu$tokens" or Robux. These tokens can be used to both purchase games, games from other users, and in-game items. It also serves as a way to gain currency for in-game purchases such as buying more slots, which helps players advance faster in the game.
