The background was green instead of red and white stripes were in the middle instead of the top or bottom. The logo used from 2009 to 2012 as a banner (not yet released). Using it as a banner, it was at the top when it was released to users, becoming more popular than the original image upon release (which it shared with Minecraft). Logo before 2012.

ROBLOX has also been criticised for lacking any kind of quality assurance for its games. There have been many issues with the quality of some games and many users have complained that their game descriptions are not accurate. The site is also frustratingly inconsistent in the manner it deals with things like this, often banning users who complain about bugs and glitches within their games but not actually banning anyone who commits an illegal act, such as copying someone else's game and selling it without permission.

I am not a Minecraft addict, but I do enjoy playing that game. However, that is only because my friends and I play it together. Not because of the millions of dollars or diamonds you can get for free on Roblox. People are obsessed with Roblox; my Facebook account was filled with friends who played Minecraft as if they were addicted to crack. They would constantly post pictures about their new lifesize cardboard builds they worked on at home; taking ages-long breaks between each video to watch more videos of minecraft. We've all had friends who were that addicted to Roblox in our time, but I have never met one like Sinead who was "deeply miserable" because she was deprived of playing it. That was always the case whenever anyone mentioned it, I'm sure; parents would frequently ask me if and how I managed to get my grades, and teachers would always ask me if we had any homework. Sometimes they'd even assign us essays to write about our time on Roblox; even though a few months before everyone stopped doing them unless they were mandatory.
